

RUMORS ABOUT KAISER WORRY THE BRITISH

Reaction in Germany Considered Possible After Revolt Blows Over.

NOT SO, EBERT INDICATES

New Premier Asserts Elections Will Undoubtedly Be Held When Soldiers Are Home From Front, Which Is Not Likely Before January at Earliest.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The rumors that William Hohenzollern, the former German emperor, may possibly return to Germany, as supported by the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger's hint that he would not be refused an entry to this country, has created a considerable stir here. They are refuted by several of the morning newspapers as creating an uncertain situation which is rendered more doubtful by accounts of the activity of German propagandists in several countries.

The fear mainly is that the former emperor would sooner or later become the center of a reactionary movement in Germany when the present revolutionary storm has blown over, and the advocates of this view consequently fear his return to his former empire.

GERMAN ELECTIONS NOT BEFORE JANUARY

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 19.—Frederick Ebert, the German premier, told the Vossische Zeitung on Friday that the government was firmly determined to summon the constituent assembly but that it was impossible to effectively hold the elections before January, by which time the troops will have returned home. He considered untenable the objection that delay would hinder the gathering of the peace delegates.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The entire political situation in Austria is provisional, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Daily Mail dated November 14. The rulers of the old Austria state, the correspondent continues, have disappeared, as have the generals who led the army. Former Emperor Charles is virtually a prisoner at Eckartsau.

Connellsville has a chance this year to wipe out the string of defeats in past seasons, and every man on the team is working with that ambition.

Football interest is again being revived and a larger crowd than has yet been at Fayette Field this year is expected Saturday. Interest in the local high school team lagged last year with the inability to win. This season, however, both Charleroi and Washington, the latter one of the strongest teams in Western Pennsylvania, were tied by Connellsville, and West Newton was given a crushing defeat. With this good record the local warriors will go against Scottsdale Saturday with a determination to win that cannot be doubted.

WILSON WILL ATTEND PEACE CONFERENCE

Chief Executive Will Leave For France Early in December.

PLANS ARE INDEFINITE

Mrs. Wilson Will Probably Accompany Her Husband; How Long Party Will Remain May Depend on When the Delegates Assemble.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President Wilson has decided to attend the peace conference. Official announcement was made last night. The President will leave immediately after the convening of the regular session of Congress December 2. What he plans in addition to attending the conference has not been announced.

This official statement was issued at the White House.

The President expects to sail for France immediately after the opening of the regular session of Congress for the purpose of taking part in the discussions and settlement of the main features of the treaty of peace. It is not likely that it will be possible for him to remain throughout the sessions of the formal peace conference but his presence at the outset is necessary in order to obviate the manifest disadvantages of discussion by cable in determining the greater outlines of the final treaty about which he must necessarily be consulted.

He will, of course, be accompanied by delegates who will sit as representatives of the United States throughout the conference. The names of the delegates will be presently announced.

How long the President will remain abroad he himself probably cannot say now. The time for the convening of the peace conference has not yet been announced but the general belief here is that it cannot be assembled before late in December at the earliest. If such proves the case the President will be absent from the country for at least a month and probably longer.

What plans the President may have for his trip other than to attend the opening of the peace conference and to participate in the discussions among the representatives of the associated nations which will precede it has not been revealed. He undoubtedly will be accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and it is expected here that besides visiting Paris where the peace congress probably will be held, he will go to London and possibly to Brussels and Rome.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The presence of President Wilson in Europe is "absolutely essential," declared Sir Charles Ross, one of the largest land owners of the United Kingdom and inventor of the Canadian service rifle, on his arrival here today on the British steamship Orduna. He said he had come to the United States on a "special mission" but declined to say what it was.

"The people of Great Britain and of the United States," he added, "do not fully understand each other but both desire to reach a better basis of mutual understanding. A visit to Europe by President Wilson at the present time will have a wonderful effect on future relations."

HUNDRED HOMES FOR RENT IN THE CITY IS DEMAND

Only Solution in Sight is Erection of Large Number of Dwellings.

HIGH COST STANDS IN WAY

Expense of Building, With War Prices for Materials Prevailing, Is Prohibitive; Yet Growth of Industries Demands Something Be Done.

Houses for rent are at a premium in Connellsville and the lack of accommodation is keeping many families away. With lots of good jobs open there are many men who would make Connellsville their home, but they are forced to remain away as there is nowhere to live. Single men can be supplied with rooming accommodations, but it is doubtful if there is a desirable vacant house in the entire city.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company is waiting only until accommodations can be found before bringing in 25 machinists, some of whom have families, to work in the shops here. The importation of 25 machinists alone means employment for almost 100 more as helpers and assistants. Mayor Duggan is endeavoring to secure lodgings for these men.

With the Sligo Iron & Steel company ready to go on a 100 per cent basis there will be a demand for houses for men who will come here to work. Not many men have been brought in by the Sligo company as yet but there are many applications on the books and the men may be given a place when the plant gets into full operation.

The Capitan Glass company at South Connellsville is ready to go on a full run and it gives employment to several hundred men.

Since the resumption of school with the lifting of the influenza ban, students from eight now families have been admitted to the high school. No departures have been reported, however and there is a material gain in the population of the city.

It was suggested to Mayor Duggan that it would be easy to rent several new houses at this time. He replied that 100 homes could easily be filled but doubted whether anyone would build houses at this time with materials so high.

There have been very little construction work in this city during the past year, which accounts for the shortage of houses. With the rise in the price of building material persons who had contemplated building did not sign any contracts. There never was a great number of vacant houses in Connellsville, as the demand always grew with the number erected. As soon as building was stopped, however, the demand soon became so great that there was an insufficient supply. This demand has been growing and every real estate agent in the city is carrying the names of clients on his books who want to rent.

There does not seem to be any relief in sight until the price of material drops and then it is probable that contractors will be supplied with many building orders.

When this has been finished the workers will comply with the request of headquarters to turn their attention to aiding in the making of hospital and refugee garments, the production of which it is desired to largely increase.

In a letter received at the headquarters of the Fayette county chapter the director of the division headquarters in Philadelphia says:

"Our records show that your chapter has no surgical work under Army order, and we hope that the women who have worked so splendidly on the surgical dressings will now devote their energy to making hospital and refugee garments. There is a terrible demand for this work which will continue for months. We hope that all chapters will be able to handle the amount of work they have been doing so that the division can fill the orders received from national headquarters."

LADY GRATEFUL FOR HELP RECEIVED

"For 15 years I suffered increasingly with stomach and liver trouble. Bloating with gas distressed me very much and caused serious heart fluttering. All medicine only relieved temporarily. I gave up hope of ever being cured. My druggist advised me one day to try May's Wonderful Remedy. I am feeling like a new woman since and can now eat anything with no ill results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

GERMANY FREE FOR ALL TIME FROM A DICTATOR, SAYS MAX

General Ludendorff Directed Affairs of the Empire, Former Chancellor Declares.

By Associated Press.

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 19.—Prince Maximilian of Baden, the former German Imperial chancellor, in an article in the Prussian year book, in which he reveals certain facts about his brief term in the chancellorship, says: "The German people by the formation of a popular government in liberated from the dictatorship of General Ludendorff and will never tolerate another."

If its enemies, wishing to talk only with a legally established government, were themselves obliged to convene a constituent assembly. The government should not surrender this initiative. If it governs democratically it can be assured of the support of all Germans animated by liberal ideas in the accomplishment of its gigantic task."

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Frank Ernesty and family wish to thank their many friends who so kindly assisted them during their late bereavement, the death of husband and father. They wish especially to thank those who sent flowers as a token of sympathy to them.—Adv.

PROPAGANDA.The warning sent out from Washington against the arrival of German propaganda, this time with a view to preventing the arrival of peace terms, has not come too early. If anything it has been too long delayed.
Better still would it have been had there not been so much talk about "a just peace," "a peace that would not humiliate Germany" and other phrases of like import which have served the purpose of lulling German activity in the direction of obtaining clemency on sentence day.The fearful, whining appeals addressed to the President by Dr. Solff, the foreign secretary of the reputed new government of Germany, evinced sincerity so plainly that they have excited indignation rather than pity except possibly in the breasts of those who are addicted to mushy sentimentalism upon all occasions, or those who have not yet cast off the effluvia of the Germanophile.The purpose of the new rulers of Germany, in exploiting the distresses of their people while coldly indifferent to the suffering they have visited upon the innocent non-combatants of other countries, was to secure a millions of the German people the peace conference will impose and which Germany knows will be commensurate with the crimes she has committed.
Well aware of the proverbial tender-heartedness of the American people, and seizing the psychological moment when we mellowed by the rejoicing incident to the wonderful victory of the armies of the Allies, the Germans with the rare intuition of the race, but in their usual bungling manner, conceived the notion that we would be blind to the fact that they were playing their old game under a new disguise.With their customary subtle cunning the Germans sought to justify a sentiment among Americans which would induce them to favor greater lenience in the peace terms than the Allies would be disposed to grant, thereby creating a division between the parties to the peace conference which would result in benefits to Germany.
That such an effort will be continued there is every reason to believe. Even though Dr. Solff has been somewhat sharply rebuked by Secretary Lansing for making his plaintive appeals direct to President Wilson, instead of addressing them through the customary diplomatic channels, we may expect the propaganda to continue its activities along other lines. It is against this insidious activity, which is pursued by German in method and purpose, that Washington warns the public to be watchful. We have not concluded peace with the Germans, and will not until the terms are formally signed.
Meantime we must be no more ready or willing to play into their hands than we were before hostilities ceased.

UNCLE SAM'S POLICE FORCE.

Keeping order in Europe, now that the war is ended, is going to be the biggest police job this old world has ever known. But it will have to be done.For there are about 10,000,000 fellows scattered about the continent right now who have acquired the fighting habit these last five years. They were getting tired of the big game before it ended, but this doesn't mean that they would hesitate to mix it up over their own little differences.Take the Balkans for instance. They have been a hotbed of disturbance for years. The immediate pretext for this was developed there. And their old-time animosities and jealousies have not been wiped out by their recent experiences. They are liable to flare out again at any moment.Then there is the big question of Russia. There are millions of former serfs still drunk with the wine of newfound freedom. They have pillaged and plundered and killed without restraint for months. The whole nation is still seething. And order must be restored there before any permanent and rational government can be established.And just what Turkey will have to offer to the complication of affairs in general is yet to be developed.There are some pretty long beats to be patrolled in this police job. It's a long, long way from Vladivostok to Petrograd. From Petrograd to Bagdad, and from the Holy Land to that near neighbor of hell, Berlin.It looks like a big lot of Uncle Sam's soldier boys might be kept in Europe for many months to come.
And they will have to be maintained adequately.Inevitably it means another Liberty loan at least. It may mean two. In any event it means that we must get ready to buy more bonds.With Hindenburg turning the German army over to the so-called new government, and retaining command with the ex-Kaiser planning to return to Berlin, with Prince Eitel, one of the unsavory six sons, the ex-King of Seravia and others of the "royal" joining with the revolutionists, the first question the Allies will have to decide at the peace conference is whether they are dealing with a real or a camouflaged government in Germany.Our memories of Indian summer will be pleasant enough if we are not troubled to some "Moukham" winter in quick succession.There is a Bolshevism of politics as well as of government. Unable to win at the polls the Democratic National Committee now seeks to thwart the will of the people by trying to unseat two Republican Senators whose presence in the next Congress may stand in the way of Democratic control of the upper house. Over in Russia they simply murder them.Some Conneltsville investors will testify to the fact that Sligo has been more of a stern reality than a joke.Had Washington not shown so great anxiety that Germany be spared humiliation in the peace settlement, there would be less necessity at this time to send out S. O. 3, warnings against German propaganda subliminals.It is going to be difficult to convince the public that taking over the trans-Atlantic cables just before the beginning of the administration to Versailles is "over necessity."The 28th Division, of which the gallant 110th is a part, was in at the end of the Hun. No unit had a better right to this honor after having done so much to make the dish the most complete that has ever happened.For ability to stick to his job Hindenburg has made rather the best record of any of the Hun Junkers.The final pass of the pre-election appeal to "my fellow countrymen" and the advice of our contemporary to forgo the faint to Versailles seem alike powerless to prevent President Wilson committing another indiscretion.The British food controller talks like a Missourian when discussing the sending of food to Germany. He wants to be shown that they need it worse than the victims of "Kultur" in Belgium, France, Poland, Rumania and Serbia do.Von Tirpitz, the U-boat pirate, is another distinguished German who has suddenly discovered the insalubrity of the climate of Berlin in November.

VERSAILLES, WHERE THE INTERALLIED CONFERENCE MEETS

This is a view of the beautiful palace of Versailles, the seat of the interallied war conference that settles Germany's doom. In the foreground is seen part of the Orangerie. The palace is one of the most magnificent structures in the world. It is said Louis XIV spent $100,000,000 on it and the surrounding park.

In the Matter of Hats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Jonathan burne, Jr., today gave out the following statement from its Washington headquarters:"The War Industries Board recently secured from importers of hats an agreement not to import styles of hats which domestic manufacturers are forbidden to make. Explaining the reasons for exacting this agreement from the importers, the War Industries Board said:"It was considered unfair to the American manufacturer that his willingness to join with the government to conserve materials necessary to the prosecution of the war should leave him open to competition with foreign products not similarly regulated.""The logic of that attitude of the War Industries Board is absolutely sound, but let us see where it leads.
In time of peace the American manufacturer pays higher wages than are paid by foreign manufacturers. He does this because the American workman desires to maintain a higher standard of living than the foreign workman is able to enjoy. He does this also because American laws and customs forbid child labor. He does it because conservation of human life and health are as necessary for the preservation of prosperity and happiness.""The head of the War Industries Board was one of the largest contributors to the campaign funds which brought the Democratic party into control of the government and enabled it to enact the Wilson-Lindbergh tariff law which threw our markets open to the foreign producer. Why cannot the War Industries Board now secure an agreement from Democrats to re-establish the protective tariff and justify that action by saying, in the language of their recent explanation:"It was considered unfair to the
government to conserve materials necessary to the prosecution
products not similarly regulated.""Why must we be fair to the American manufacturer in time of war and not be fair to him in time of peace?
Why must we restrict the importer in time of war and leave him free to demolish American domestic trade in time of peace?""We pause for a reply from the War Industries Board."

An unusually interesting stock for women to inspect is now on display at our stores. It is an extraordinary line of distinctive styles of women's, misses', and children's coats. The variety is immense, and there is going to be a rousing sale. The prices will be one attraction; the styles will be another attraction. It would be hard to describe these attractive garments, and the different kinds of material. Some of them are made plain, others with belts; some are fur trimmed, others plain; some of them have great lines of buttons, large buttons and small buttons; others are made without this trimming, but what we want to impress you with mostly is the extraordinary moderate prices of these goods and the very distinctive styles. They are made up especially for us. Many months ago the orders were given, and are now here on sale. The most pleasing part of the whole stock is the dainty, attractive coats for misses and children. We respectfully solicit your inspections.

Period of Demobilization Must Not be a Period of Demoralization

By Dr. John R. Mott, Director of United War Work Campaign.

Few people realize how long the period of demobilization must be. It required seventeen months after the American Civil War, before the last regiments were mustered out. Following the Franco-Prussian War it was over two years before all the troops were demobilized. Eighteen months elapsed between the last battle of the Russo-Japanese War and the end of demobilization. Even in the Spanish-American War the time between the last battle and the last muster was sixteen months and the corresponding period after the Boer War was fully ten months, and thirteen months were required for the purpose after the Russo-Japanese struggle.

The Canadian military authorities are reported to have stated that it would take fifteen months to bring the Canadian Army home and that the plan of demobilization for the armies of Australia and New Zealand may require as much as eighteen months. No prominent military or naval leader of our own country has said that it would require less than twelve months to bring all of the American forces home.

The burning central question which the United Campaign is pressing upon the country is, Shall the period of demobilization become a period of demoralization or not?

Without shadow of doubt the American people will by their generous response insist on giving the right answer to this

Must be Made With More Thoroughness Than Our Preparation for War; The Industry Must Not be Left in a State of Chaotic Adjustments Needed

It remains an open question whether conditions in the iron and steel industry upon peace becoming assured will be made by artificial control or will be the result of fortuitous circumstances, whether there will be regulation or a drift. The United States was very largely unprepared for war and it is quite within the bounds of possibilities that it will find itself still less prepared for peace, says the American Metal Market.

Undoubtedly there are plans in Washington for regulation, but their precise nature is not divulged. Even without a clear statement of the program, if there is one, the iron and steel industry has shown a receptive feeling. It regards wise regulation, for the transitional period, as distinctly desirable from all angles. Naturally, much doubt is entertained whether regulation can actually be accomplished, these doubts arising in chief part from the legal questions involved. With congressional action anything that might be desirable could presumably be accomplished, but congressional action cannot be depended upon. The stress of war that has moved Congress to act promptly on a number of war measures, at least much more promptly than it would, could not be counted upon in the case of reconstruction measures.

Whatever be the balance of probabilities at the moment, the possibility of the matter being left to itself is clear enough to be worthy of consideration. On the basis of here being no fresh action, along reconstruction lines, the iron and steel industry would be left in decidedly chaotic condition. Of business on books the industry would have a surfeit, but there would be widely varying descriptions of business. As to government orders, few if any have been placed with any positive arrangement as to what is to become of the orders in the event of peace. Some of the steel ordered would still be needed, some would not, and it would be out of the question for orders to be carried out if the material were not needed. Adjustments will have to be made in the case of steel for instance. In the case of railroad and ship steel, the material will still be needed. Prices on such steel are prices ruling at the time of delivery as fixed by any recognized government agency. Such prices are now War Industry Board prices, but the authority is not necessarily confined to that board. All the pronouncements have referred to any recognized government agency. Hitherto prices have been fixed quarter by quarter. The present prices cover deliveries through December 31, war or no war.

As to orders on books of steel producers from commercial consumers, these are of various characters and at various prices. Possibly some business is on the books at less than the present set prices, while there is a very considerable amount of old business on books that is at higher than the set prices. So far as concerns the price, the mills are not now debarred from shipping on such orders, the regulation being on deliveries while the governing element is the purpose for which the material would be used. The safe course for all interests, producers and consumers, to pursue at the present time is to hope that there will be wise and proper regulation in the transitional period from war to peace, and to prepare for business having to get through the period as best it can, without such regulation.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop Eating Meat for a While if Your Bladder is Troubling
You.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach aches, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

Safeguarding the Boys on Their Return to Civil Life

History is full of bitter examples which prove that the reconstruction period following bloody warfare may be even more dangerous to the life of a nation than the period of actual strife. Far seeing men have always sought to be prepared for this reconstruction and even now men are rising with tentative programs upon which to erect a substantial structure that will retain for the nation all the fruits of victory.

Men and women of vision in the councils of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C.
A., the National Catholic War Council (Knights of Columbus), Jewish Welfare Board, American Library Association, War Camp Community Service and the Salvation Army are turning their attention to the future. They are the men and women who presented in the early days of the war programs which have been incorporated into the military machine. Right now they are looking farther ahead than their immediate needs require, needs to insure which they have joined in the United War Work Campaign to raise $150,000,000 so that they may carry on and extend the program of war service which General Pershing and the military and civil authorities of the Allied nations generally regard as a real war-winning contribution to the training and morale of the armies opposed to Germany.

The process of demobilization will be slow. Hundreds of thousands of American soldiers must remain overseas for many months after they have finished their job, while their yearning to return home constantly grows more keen. A program must be set up to handle effectively the problems which will be presented by this situation. The Y. M. C. A. is prepared to continue its present program so far as the providing of recreation is concerned. One highly important addition to that program will be made.

Into the hands of the "Y" has been given the task of administration of what may be described as the world's greatest university. More than 30,000 illiterates and foreign-born American soldiers are now studying English and French under "Y" auspices, and 200,000 men are studying French. When the war is over this educational program will be enlarged to include courses for men who have never had any schooling; for men who completed only the elementary grades; and for men who are qualified for university training. Thousands of teachers and millions of text books will be required for this work alone.

The National Catholic War Council, Knights of Columbus, has formed an advisory committee on reconstruction and after the war activities. Economic experts and students of sociology are preparing a comprehensive program for the period immediately following the restoration of peace.

Inspired, as are the "Y" and the National Catholic War Council by a belief that the reconstruction and demobilization period will make even greater demands upon the energies and resources of the war service organizations, the Salvation Army is preparing to extend its program. The present equipment, huts, hotels and the like overseas and in America will be kept intact. The Salvation Army will endeavor to find employment for returned fighting men who desire such assistance; to reunite families that have become separated; and to remind those who stayed at home of their debt to those who risked their lives.
The world wide organization of the Salvation Army will be devoted to this task.

The Jewish Welfare Board looks forward to a continuation of a working basis for cooperation with the other United War Work organizations.
Special attention, of course, will be paid to the special problems of the hundreds of thousands of Jews in the service. During demobilization the fighting men will be continued, plus the new departments that will be set up to aid in the re-assimilation of fighting men into industrial life.

Working in cooperation with the agencies mentioned, the American Library Association is preparing for a tremendous extension of its facilities for providing reading matter to soldiers. The demands of soldiers who are far from home. The library branches, whether in A. L. A. headquarters or as part of the activities of the Y. M. C.
A. or the Knights of Columbus, the Salvation Army and the "Y" will be continued. At the same time much of the responsibility for the success of the "university" will fall upon the American Library Association. The "Y" Army Educational Commission looks to this association for a large part of the text book equipment which will be required to carry on the variety of courses of study arranged for the soldiers.

The War Camp Community Service, the peace title of which is the Recreation Association of America, estimates that its war activities must be continued at least two years more. Since the war started this service has provided clubs for troops and opened to them existing club facilities; has supplied information, stimulated athletics and fostered community spirit; and through a grievance committee has protected fighting men from over-charge and exploitation.

While all this reconstruction work is being done for the benefit of the men of the fighting forces the Y. W. C.
A. is making ready to help in the solution of the problems which the women who have taken the places of men in industry must face. This great body of women must be absorbed into constructive occupations. As always the Y. W. C. A. will continue to combat unsettled moral standards.

Those seven organizations, designated by the government to do a necessary war service, have proved their value as an essential part of the military machine by increasing the morale of the fighting forces and restoring the men to normal after they have undergone seemingly impossible strain. This service must now be aimed toward fitting the fighting men to return to industrial and professional life.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally That Nobody
Can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known truggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.
This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite litation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

MILL RUN BOY WRITES

Charley Shearer Reads First Mail
From Home and Wants More.

Mrs. Rebecca Shearer of Mill Run has received the following letter from her son, Charley R. Shearer, who is in France:
"Dear Mother—This Wednesday afternoon I will answer your dear kind letters which I received today. I received three from you, one of them was written on August 20, one on September 9 and one on September 23. I also received a letter from Hazel and one from W. L. Hill from McKees Rocks. He told me I was in good standing in the lodge and said if I came back my job is ready for me on the railroad. Mother, I received the $5 bill which you sent to me in one of those letters; many thanks for it. This is the first mail I have gotten since I came across.
I surely did feel happy to sit down and read a letter from home.
I am still living on the railroad I do not like the work so well for it takes so long to get any place. The trains do not run over here like the trains in the good U. S. A. Of course, by being on the railroad I get to see a lot of France. I am in the town of Vierzon. It is a very nice town, but I would rather be in Glassport.
How is Lindsey's family? And especially my little Wynona? How are all the folks at home? Tell them all to write to me for I feel at home when I am reading a letter from home.
New mother don't worry about me for I am well and having a good time and I expect to be in the good old U. S. A. soon."
The letter was dated October 24.

a Miracle."

"Yes sir, this Tanlac beats anything I have ever before used," declared F.
P. Shively, a well-known salesman, who lives at 1007 Third St., Juniata, Pa.

"I had no idea it was so good. Why, it has restored my health so perfectly that it seems more like a miracle than anything else."

"I had suffered from stomach trouble. My digestion was all out of sorts. I couldn't eat. Whenever I did try to take anything solid, I would suffer from gas on my stomach and a sickening feeling that lasted for several hours afterward."

"My nerves were also out of gear, and I couldn't sleep sound and restful at night. I would wake up in the morning feeling heavy and languid, and I could scarcely muster up enough energy to get up and dress myself. I seldom ever could eat breakfast."

"After using two bottles of Tanlac my stomach seems in perfect shape, I can eat good and never sleep better in all my life. My weight has been increased three pounds by Tanlac. I simply can't get enough to eat now."

SMITHFIELD BOY "PUTS ONE OVER" ON ARMY CENSOR

Judson Grimm Resorts to Unique Means of Telling Mother His Location in France.

SMITHFIELD, Nov. 18.—Judson Grimm, with the American Army in France, in a letter to his mother here, found a way to beat the censors.
He told her he was located in France.
Judson had reference to J. A. Meller as the man that kept the candy shop, and notion store next door to A. J. Sutton, when Sutton was postmaster of Smithfield that the first four letters of the man's name was where he was located in France.
Judson had reference to J. A. Mel-
shop, who is now retired from business, but still a resident of Smithfield. With this information it was plain to Mrs. Grimm that her son was in Metz.

Mrs. T. J. Board, who was in feeble health before, on receiving word of her son, Howard's death, killed in action in France, has been much worse.
Her condition now is serious.

The local physicians say that the "flu," which was apparently abating in this community, has broken out afresh and is now on the increase.

J. W. Weaver and daughter, Mrs.
Charles Ryan, were Uniontown business visitors Friday. Mrs. Ryan's husband, Dr. Charles Ryan, is with the Medical Corps in France.

Peg's Ideas on Conservation

I KNEW Peggy was in war work but I didn't know she carried it into the home.
She started the conservation subject and finally switched to the telephone.

"But what has the telephone—?"

"I'll show you," exclaimed Peg, anticipating my question. "Take, for instance, the telephone message, 'What are you going to wear?' You know how many times we ask that over the telephone. Also we make as many other unimportant and needless calls. Such things can be decided just as easily when arrangements are first made. Then, too—"

But I am sure you get the point.
I did, and, as I thought it over several hours later, it occurred to me that every time we telephone we should stop and ask ourselves whether the call is more important than the saving of equipment and the operators' services for the war industries.

Then, I am sure we will see that our part—the woman's part—is to telephone only when necessary.

PATRONIZE THOSE WHO ADVERTISE!

"CAP" STUBBS.

A Very Bad Moral

By JANE OSBORN

"Say, there's a new efficiency man and he's some looker," commented the tell brunette in the "beauty parlor" of Reed's dry goods store to the rather short, stout, young woman who was leaning over the counter next to the tell brunette's.

Charlotte Day, the rather blonde, rather stout, young woman, made no comment.

"Hooey, he's stunning," went on her companion. "I saw him when I went up to the stock room for nail files just now. He's the real thing, I'll tell you—none of your run-of-the-mill, pale-faced, door-walkers, either. He never worked in a store before. He was a college professor or something and went in for this efficiency stuff. He's going to give some talks on selling and success at noon here. You don't want to miss 'em. The one today is called 'Know your customer.' You don't want to miss it—his certainly a dandy-looking young man."

Charlotte smiled slightly as a short cut to express her lack of interest in the new efficiency man in general and his good looks in particular.

"Say, I'm through with this efficiency game," she said. "Ever since I came to this place two years ago I've been listening to that kind of thing. Who man they had before gave that same idea of 'Know Your Customer.' I was just young enough and foolish enough to take it all in. And I read uplift talks in the paper at night on 'Forging Your Way to the Front.' They all give the same advice. They say if you tend to your little job the best way you know how, why some day you'll be head of your department or maybe make a hit with somebody and get married to someone who'll appreciate how hard you've worked and everything. Talk about knowing your customers—don't I know every wart on that fat Mrs. Peabody's old face? And don't I know just how many double chins that Armstrong woman has? And talk about being diplomatic—oh, yes, indeed, Mrs. Armstrong, the facial massage does make one dreadfully pale. Not that you would usually need any rouge, but after the massage I'd better put on a little. Oh, I'm sure you don't usually need it."

"And then this Mr. Peabody? You're a little of this, too, Mrs. Peabody. No, indeed, it isn't dye. But this new electric treatment makes the hair look a little dull and you really need a little of this tonic to bring out the natural color of the hair. And of course she knows and I know that it's straight walnut dye. And that's what I've been doing for two years, kidding them and studying them and saying what they want me to. Where has it got me? Yes, they smile at me and ask for me when they make appointments—but when they come, anything more. Why, to hear these efficiency men talk you'd think that they were going to ask you home in their limousines and were going to introduce you to their families and get rich husbands for you, or that you were going to be buyer for the department or something. No, indeed," concluded Charlotte, rising and smoothing her diminutive apron. "I'm through. I'm going to act just the way I feel like acting. I have a feeling that it will get me further than the other way."

So Charlotte abandoned her efficiency method and proceeded to try different tactics. When Mrs. Armstrong came she bluntly announced the presence of an additional chin, and she referred to Mrs. Peabody's hair restorative as dye in a way that made that lady blush with surprise. She told one woman frankly that she was ruining her hair by having it waved so often, and another that she would look far better if she didn't get the expensive "transformation" that she was thinking of buying.

Then a well-dressed young man came to have his finger nails manicured, and Charlotte performed her job with none of the customary play of small talk that was calculated to make the customers return.

"How do they look?" asked the man after Charlotte had put on the final high polish.

"If you really want to know," commented Charlotte, thinking only of her resolve to be perfectly frank, "I think they look like fury on a man. The way they were when you came in is the way a man ought to have his nails kept. Now they are shaped and pointed and polished till they look like a woman's. Somehow you're not the sort of man that looks as if he would go in for that sort of thing."

Charlotte noticed the young man's eyes studying her face.

"Still," he said, "it is rather bad business—it seems to me, for you to give that sort of advice. Perhaps you are right, but your game is to get as many customers as you can for your store, isn't it?"

"You talk like one of those efficiency men," commented Charlotte, with a sigh, replacing her implements in neat array on top of the table, and the man hurried away.

Charlotte did not go to the noon-hour talk, although it was the first advantage of the sort that she had missed since her arrival in the store two years before. Instead, she took a walk in an secluded neighborhood as she could reach within walking distance of the store. She breathed freer and deeper than usual. She really felt, without knowing why, that she had taken a step toward her own emancipation. What if she did lose her job? At least if she did, something might happen—there might be some adventure connected with the next one, and in the end she had been keeping for two years there was nothing but monotony. She thought of the man who had just departed. Really he hadn't disliked it because she told him the truth. He had looked at her with interest. She had at least surprised him and that was more than she had ever done to say when customer in two years.

After the lunch hour, when Charlotte

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have ringing, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your drug-gist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 3/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 teaspoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

was summoned to the office of the new efficiency man, she thought only that perhaps he wanted to see all those who had not attended his talk. She actually did turn a little pale when she realized that he was the same decidedly good-looking young man whose nails she had recently manicured. She noticed that the high polish had been rubbed off. He asked her to take a chair beside his desk, and then he proceeded to give her a little talk on efficiency purely for her own benefit. It was an A. B. C. lesson in salesmanship. He assumed that she had never heard anything of the sort before and assured her that if she only listened ahead in the way he suggested she would reap her reward. Success would be hers—she would work herself out of the rank and file, etc.

Then Charlotte waxed eloquent in reply. In fact, she rose and stood over Mr. Avery Baker's desk and her eyes flashed as she talked to him.

"I'm through with this efficiency game," she announced. "I've been perging away at it ever since I came, and I'm sharpening the same stupid people and manuevering the same hands and getting the same wages and telling the same lies and hoping the same hopes that I was two years ago. That is, I want on hoping I'd get my reward till this morning I realized that—that there just wasn't any reward. What do you people mean when you talk about forging ahead? Tell me, Mr. Efficiency Man, where is the golden opportunity you're always holding up as an incentive?"

Mr. Avery Baker evaded the question as tactfully as possible and saved his reputation as an expert by assuring Charlotte that her real trouble was that she was a round peg in a square hole. He said he had made a tour of the store that morning and had got his nails manicured not because he cared for high polish—she was really quite right in saying what she did, though it was very bad salesmanship—but to test the work of that department. He had realized that she had the wrong point of view and that is why he had sent for her. Now he knew she had ability and she was no longer to work in the beauty department. She was to be his assistant. She could talk extremely well—that she had just proved—and she could help him in his lessons in salesmanship.

It was only two months later that Mr. Avery Baker, after due deliberation, realized that his entire happiness as well as his complete efficiency depended on his marrying Charlotte Day, and Charlotte had in a measure decided that, were the opportunity to arise for her to accept a proposal from Mr. Avery Baker, she would hesitate only long enough for appearances' sake.

"You'll have to admit," laughed Avery, "that I'm some efficiency man. I found you unsuccessful in the beauty parlor and knew right away that you'd double my own efficiency and achieve my complete happiness if you became my life partner."

Charlotte pondered a moment. "Still," she said, "the reward didn't come because I pegged ahead and did my best the way I'd been told. It all began the day I decided I'd break away and forget the efficiency stuff. If I'd gone on as I had for two years I'd be counting Mrs. Armstrong's chins and Mrs. Peabody's warts."

Avery Baker looked quickly into Charlotte's face. "Perhaps you are right. In your case perhaps it was better to break away. But, Charlotte, dear, from the efficiency man's point of view it is a very unsatisfactory moral for our little romance."

Latin and Hebrew, which, after having been numbered so very long among the dead languages, is becoming today again a living, spoken tongue, we must turn to Latin, though the analogy is not perfect, it is decidedly romantic. In either case, through all the dreadful days of barbarism in Europe the Roman Catholic church helped to preserve the Latin language from oblivion. When Greek had all but perished from the ken of mankind at large, when even Homer had almost been forgotten, the language of the Caesars still rendered international communication possible.

For a parallel to Hebrew, which, after having been numbered so very long among the dead languages, is becoming today again a living, spoken tongue, we must turn to Latin, though the analogy is not perfect, it is decidedly romantic. Charlotte did not go to the noon-hour talk, although it was the first advantage of the sort that she had missed since her arrival in the store two years before. Instead, she took a walk in an secluded neighborhood as she could reach within walking distance of the store. She breathed freer and deeper than usual. She really felt, without knowing why, that she had taken a step toward her own emancipation. What if she did lose her job? At least if she did, something might happen—there might be some adventure connected with the next one, and in the end she had been keeping for two years there was nothing but monotony. She thought of the man who had just departed. Really he hadn't disliked it because she told him the truth. He had looked at her with interest. She had at least surprised him and that was more than she had ever done to say when customer in two years.

SALARY IS REFUSED BY TIGER WILLIAMS

Former Bantamweight Champion Shows Real Patriotism.

Teaches Art of Self-Defense to 5,000 Doughboys at Camp Holabird for $1 Per Annum—Wouldn't Accept $1,800.

At a salary of $1 a year Kid Williams, former world's bantamweight champion, is now working for the United States government. He flatly refused to accept $1,800 for the same job, which is a spirit of patriotism unequalled by any prominent ring star.

The appointment by the government was brought about through an effort of a newspaper man in Baltimore to induce Williams by requesting those in charge of the enforcement of the work-of-duty law to investigate his case. This request had "learned" that the Tiger was attempting to beat the spirit of the law by serving as a salesman in a hat store.

Williams was called up and asked at what essential occupation he was serving. He frankly stated that his work in the store was merely done without cost to help out a friend during his spare moments. His essential work, he declared, was at Camp Holabird, where he daily teaches 5,000 doughboys the rudiments of the art of self-defense, which has been declared by military experts so essential in modern fighting.

But the kid said his appointment wasn't official. The government command was called in. He promptly declared that Williams' work was essential in the extreme and stated that the kid had never been appointed officially because he refused to accept any monetary consideration for his efforts and the government requires that all its employees must be paid.

To straighten out the matter Williams' official appointment was asked for and received. He refused the $1,800 a year for the princely sum of $1.

DIRECT ATHLETICS FOR CORPS

Lieut. Charles Nelson, St. Louis, Given New Post as Director—Piloted Many Winners.

Charles Nelson, a son of former State Senator Dave Nelson of Missouri, who was commissioned a first lieutenant at the officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan last year and assigned to the signal corps, departing for France on last Thanksgiving day, has been relieved of the command of the Thirtieth squadron, in view of his special fitness to become director of athletics of the third A. I. C. succeeding Lieutenant Lyons of C. O. headquarters, who was acting in the same capacity.

Nelson before joining the colors was associated with athletics in St. Louis, being employed with a sporting goods firm, and he has piloted many winning aggregations and boxes out of the ranks of the Thirtieth squadron since arriving in France.

Expert on Saving. Millions of persons, according to Freeman Putney, Jr., in the Financial World, decide to save, do it haphazard for a time, then they drop back into careless money habits. They fail because they follow the wrong system.

The wrong way, Mr. Putney points out, is to pay current expenses first and then save what remains. The right way is to make up your mind how much you can save weekly, then lay that amount aside first.

Generous Offer. My little nephew is fond of remembering his aunts on their birthdays. He did not have enough money saved to buy one of them a gift, so he apologetically said: "Aunt Rose, I am sorry I have not enough money to buy you a present, but I'll come and stay two weeks with you."—Chicago Tribune.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN ENGLAND ARE TO COME HOME FIRST

First Shipload Scheduled to Start For New York in a Week.

18,000 ARE IN BRITAIN

Hospital Units Will Be Retained to Care for Sick but All Others Will Probably Be Removed as Rapidly as Possible; Plans Are Incomplete.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The first American troops to depart homeward as a result of the signing of the armistice will be 18,000 men stationed in England. The American army expects to start the first shipload of these soldiers homeward within a week and to have all the men on their way back to the United States in 10 days later.

The plans for clearing England of American troops are incomplete, but it is desired to remove those men immediately, as some shipping is available for this purpose. Most of the 18,000 men are helping the British air force.

The American hospital units will be left in England until a policy for caring for future cases of illness among the Americans has been decided upon.

The belief is expressed at army headquarters that very few Americans will be left long in England, as it is thought the hospitals in France can care for future needs.

NO EASY JOB FOR PLAYERS

Former Baseball Tossers in Shipyards Find Uncle Sam Is No Easy Taskmaster.

Gus Getz, former Brooklyn ball player, now a shipbuilder, is among those who have found out that Uncle Sam is no easy taskmaster. He is caloused up from handling sheet iron, and delivers himself as follows:

"The quicker the public rides itself of the idea we ball players in the shipyards have things any easier than the rest of the men the better. We shipyard men, ball players or not, are working, and working hard. No dawdling will be stood for.

"A couple of ball players up at Fore River thought they could go to sleep at the switch, but they promptly were bounced out of the job into the army. That served as a lesson to all."

Acid-Stomach Brings On Premature Old Age

A few years ago the famous scientist, Prof. Metchnikoff, declared that people generally become decrepit—feeble—aged, years and years before their time—that a person ought to live well over a hundred years. He devoted a long life to scientific experiments and proved that the toxic poisons which form in the intestines and cause auto-intoxication—that is, self poisoning—had more to do with shortening life than anything else. Clean out these poisons and there is no reason why human beings should not live hale, hearty, strong and vigorous a hundred years or more. Such is the doctrine as taught by the noted Metchnikoff.

What causes those toxic poisons, you ask—where do they come from—how do they get into the intestinal tract?

Science gives us an answer in one word—super-acidity—which is merely the medical name for what is more commonly known as acid-stomach.

Too much acid in the stomach interferes with proper digestion of food. Instead, it ferments; and it is this mass of partially digested, sour, fermenting food passing through the intestines that creates those toxic poisons—poisons that are absorbed into the blood causing it to become thin, pale and sluggish—poisons that cause a long train of diseases and make millions of men and women feeble, haggard and old looking before their time when by rights they should be strong, healthy, in the prime of life.

Common sense tells us that in order to stop those toxic poisons forming in the intestines, you must rid the stomach of excess acid. The food you eat must be properly digested and assimilated, and not allowed to enter the intestines a sour, fermented mass, there to become a breeding place for countless millions of deadly germs—for these germs are in reality what make the poisons.

A very has been found for removing the excess acid from the stomach so quickly, naturally, easily, that it seems almost unbelievable. The removal of the excess acid is done by an absorbent remedy—much the same as you take up a blot of ink with blotting paper.

This modern remedy is called EATONIC, in the form of compressed tablets, that you eat like a bit of candy. It is prepared to absorb the harmful acid and carry it away through the bowels. It drives the blood out of the body. You can fairly feel it work. This leaves the stomach sweet, cool and strong. As the excess acid is taken away, it aids digestion and assimilation and so helps you get full strength out of every mouthful of food you eat. In cases of indigestion, heart-burn, bloating, belching, gassy, sour stomach, food-repeating and that miserable puffed up feeling after eating, EATONIC affords almost instant relief.

It is not intended that EATONIC is in any sense suggested as a direct cure for catarrh, ulcer and cancer of the stomach, cirrhosis of the liver, auto-intoxication, anemia, emaciation, nervousness, mental depression, headache and other serious disorders arising from superacidity. But EATONIC positively does clean out the excess acid. And never lose sight of the fact that the excess acid—acid-stomach—which is the starting cause, so great food scientists say, of all those physical and mental ills.

You have a right enjoy perfect health, eat the things you like without the slightest fear of ill after effects, feel fine and fit and be at your best—physically and mentally—every hour of the day, every day of the year and from one year's end to the other. You ought to sleep soundly and get up in the morning refreshed, ready and eager to plunge into your day's work, joyous, enthusiastic. But do you always feel that way? If you don't there's something the matter—something that's slowing you down and holding you back. Look to your acid-stomach. See if you can't locate the source of all the trouble right there. For the chance are that you have an acid-stomach—and you can't be well and strong, and retain your hold on youth until you get rid of it!

EATONIC has been the salvation of thousands in putting their acid-stomach to rights. It will do the same for you. Surely it is worth your trial.

So get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist today. We authorize him to guarantee EATONIC to please you and you can trust your doctor to make this guarantee good. If EATONIC fails in any way, take it back—he will refund your money. If your druggist does not keep EATONIC write to us direct and we will send you a big 50c box. You can send us the 50c after you receive it. Address H. L. Kramer, President, Eatonic Remedy Co., Corner Wabash Avenue and 11th Street, Chicago, Ill.

FOOD CONSERVATION CHANGES IN DIRECTION BUT NOT IN PRINCIPLE

Millions Yet to Be Fed Require That We Continue Our Self Denial in the Matter of Consumption.

In a circular letter to county food administrators, Howard Heinz, state administrator, reminds the public that we still have the obligation to conserve food supplies.

"With millions of population, in both the recovered allied territories and the conquered nations, who must be rationed and fed in the name of humanity and with no lessening of the previous demand upon us, our duty and our obligation is increased rather than diminished, and the sacrifice and self-denial of the American people in the coming months must be greater than ever before. Therefore, our request for the saving of food of every kind and nature, and by every available means, is in no-wise abandoned or even modified. On the contrary, our program is likely to become more drastic as time passes and this thought should be deeply impressed on the minds of the general public at every opportunity," says Mr. Heinz.

"MUST JUST HUG SOME ONE"

Tair Peace Celebrant Shrieks in Her

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 18.— Miss Ruth Walker, a Mount Pleasant girl, has received a letter from Harold Rumbaugh, a former Mount Pleasant boy, who enlisted in the Navy and has been doing duty on the U. S. S. Nebraska. Rumbaugh's letter is as follows:

"I received your letter which was one of 22 awaiting me on my return to civilization. Our trips have been very hard but one stay in New York City repays for it all as they surely do treat enlisted men finely. I wish you could have seen the peace celebration they pulled off. It would be impossible to tell you all that I saw, but as I was standing in front of the Hippodrome when everything was in full speed, all of a sudden a Jane rushed out of the door, looked straight at me and yelled: 'Oh dear, I must just hug some one' and before I knew it I was embraced in her arms. Within a second I was torn away from her by half dozen civilians and I thought that they were going to mob me but instead I was boosted upon two men's shoulders and with lots of other soldiers and sailors I found myself being carried down Broadway, while the people threw confetti, serpentine and scraps of paper at us. I had just bought a tailored uniform and it was the first time I had worn it and before they got through with me I looked like hell, covered from head to foot with confetti. I do not remember what happened while I was being carried almost a half a block but I was minus a hat when I got away. I think I must have thrown it away.

Everybody went wild and the town was thrown wide open. The sky was the limit. I surely did dread to come back to the ship. I saw our shows and all of them were orchestra seats from $2 to $6 and all it cost me was the war tax. I never had so much for nothing before in my life. All you could eat and a bed for two bits. Can you beat that?"

In the production the role portrayed by Miss Talmadge called for the characterization of an arch young person just like herself—to wit, an American girl, every inch of her 18 years old, pretty, high spirited and fancy free. Miss Talmadge portrays another heroine of the lovable type she is rapidly making her own. She escapes from a loveless marriage house of a Frenchman. The story of the film is returning to New York

MERCHANTS ASKED TO COOPERATE IN SAVING OF FOOD

Appeal is Directed by County Representative J. Fred Shean to Local Dealers.

All merchants of the state are requested by the state and national food administrations to cooperate in the campaign for the further conservation of food in order that not only the needs of America but also of the countries across the seas will be met during the period of reconstruction and until the harvest next year is available. In connection with the campaign, retail merchants are requested to devote a window during the week of November 21 to 23; ending with Thanksgiving Day, to the needs of food conservation.

In a letter to J. Fred Shean, of Uniontown, local state merchants' representative of the Food Administration, L. W. Wheelock, head of the state store section of the state administration, says:

The Food Administration is counting heavily and anxiously upon the week of Window Displays, November 21 to 23, ending with Thanksgiving Day, to turn the people's thoughts seriously to the question of saving food even though the fighting is done. America is pledged to a great humane effort in foreign lands, and we must still feed millions of people to avert starvation this winter.

Our leader, Mr. Hoover, has just been ordered abroad to personally direct this work and in his absence it will not do for the American people to fail to carry out the pledge he has made. We will still send over seas more than 17,500,000 tons of food stuffs before next July.

Our chief work is to persuade merchants to make their own display on food conservation, using the suggestions on the sheet, or their own ideas together with the posters furnished.

A. V. Bates, of the Wright-Metzler company at Uniontown, is county representative of the window display committee of the food administration, and is in close touch with the campaign. County merchants, who undoubtedly will cooperate most heartily in the movement, should get in touch with Mr. Bates for any information they desire and for suggestions regarding their window displays for Thanksgiving week.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Do you feel as if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, blamin, soda, charcoal drugs and various digestive aids, and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

Just before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Epsom's magnesia, not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure, unadorned, anhydrous magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Epsom's magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without the danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and moreover, the continued use of the Epsom's magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way, so long as you are not suffering from acid indigestion.

PORTABLE TOWN

Built by Red Cross for Later Moving to Help in Restoring Belgium.

On the slope of a hill near Havre, France, a typical Belgian village is being built by the American Red Cross. The houses are all to be portable. When peace time comes, the entire village will be moved to Belgium. Every house is being built so that it may be readily taken down, shipped and re-assembled.

There are to be two schools with Belgian teachers, a Belgian priest, Belgian civic officials and a large cooperative store. The inhabitants, who will move into the village as soon as the buildings are complete, will be 100 families of refugees from Belgium, who are destitute, and who have each at least four children. The cottage will have electric light, running water, gardens, and will rent for $4 a month.
Those who cannot pay rent will be provided for.

This important reconstruction work is one of the first large tasks to be undertaken in the rebuilding of devastated Belgium.

Midwinter Hats More Colorful

For some reason the millinery of midwinter is more colorful and somewhat more elaborate than that which is worn in the fall season, although the simply trimmed hat cannot be outshone. But variety is the spice of millinery as well as of life, and some of the latest arrivals in the millinery of midwinter hats are far from simple.

The hat at the center of the picture is an instance of this new departure.
In the face of a vague for sedate colors and meager trimmings, its designers have chosen to be audacious and have vindicated their choice by making a beautiful hat. It is a picturesque model with a wide brim, faced with rose-colored crepe and edged with a double full of velvet in that cool brown called "elephant." The brim is wider at the left side than elsewhere and has as many graceful turns and curves as the edge of a flower petal.
A whole company of small cutting ostrich lends—which is the millinery name for little plumes—fringe a resting place on it and they are of the same shade of brown. The crown is rather high and lifts at the left with a band of tucked belting ribbon about it in rose color.

Just to show that quite a lot of trimming can be used successfully, rather large brown beads are set at wide intervals about the upper edge of the ribbon, and even the lovely little ostrich plumes are not left alone in their glory—brown Japanese al-gones spring up among them.

Another lovely midwinter hat, at the right of the picture, brings visions of the East.

ETERNAL COMEDY OF NATURE

Lady Slipper and Dutchman's Breeches Are Among the Quaintest Flowers of Spring.

To the nature student there is an eternal comedy enacted in the woods, with the lady's slipper and the bumblebee as the principals. This plant may be fertilized and its seeds made to grow in but one way, by the bumblebee carrying the pollen of one flower to another. Realizing this, the lady's slipper places the bait of great quantities of honey near its opening to induce the bumblebee to enter.

The flower winks him inside, that pollen may be smeared all over him.
The door is so small that he may barely squeeze through. The bee does so and eats his fill of the honey and is ready to go. He finds the door so small that he may not back out of it.
There is the light of a small aperture ahead of him and he starts for it. He must crowd his way through by main force, and in so doing he gets all summed up and pollen galore sticks to him. When he enters other flowers he is prepared to thoroughly fertilize them.

Dutchman's breeches is another of the comedians of the flower world. It is a delicate stemmed, aristocratic flower, despite its plebeian name—a thing acquired from the shape of its petals. Jack-in-the-pulpit is another comedian who stands debonair in his shaggy robe and goes out in a flame theater parties—weddings and all sorts of bright assemblies. It is of taupes velvet faced with silk in three colors, pale rose, blue and lavender.

In bands inside a border of taupe on the underbrim. It is one of the few very wide-brimmed hats that have flourished in the midst of much more numerous small ones.

At the left a brown beaver hat with a crushed collar of velvet about the crown has only a fancy pompon of unwashed ostrich for ornament. There is a furure for beaver hats and therefore it is sure of as much consideration as its more trimmed rivals.

Wash Dresses for Children.

Among the dresses for the older tots are colorful chambrays and crepes, most of them made with yoke or gulltops of white organdy or muslin, the edges finished with piping or chain stitching in black or contrasting color.
Some of the little dresses have skirts buttoned to high waists with large pearl buttons, nearly all featuring running little pockets. Suspender effects are also seen in these dresses, the suspenders apparently held in position by large buttons.

Silk Plus Wool.

of glory in the form of clusters of bright red berries that supersede him.
The great family of ferns are of personal interest to one who haunts the woods, and one of the early spring wonders is the unending of the great leaves of these plants. The long arms of what are to be fern leaves shoot out of the ground in the early spring, and the knotty fist that is on the end of a fern opens out most steadily, until it becomes a multi-leaf, with every finger a rib.

The hills of the field that "tell not, neither do they spin" are infinite in number and variety. When myriads of them lift their heads above the grasses of the meadow or wave a welcome to mowers at hay time, they paint a scene of beauty hard to surpass. Their orange or yellow or brick-red flowers that last but for a day throw a deal of glory into that short span.

Judicious Optimism.
"Are you an optimist?"
"Yes. But I don't believe in being so careless and happy as to give the busy pessimist a chance for the best of the argument."

SCHROTH AS SWIM CHAMPION

Sacramento Lad Seems to Have Succeeded Lieutenant Norman Ross on Pacific Coast.

George Schroth of Sacramento seems to have succeeded Lieutenant Norman Ross of San Francisco as the all round swimming champion of California. Although hardly in Ross' class, Schroth has been winning most of the Pacific A. A. U. title races since Ross left the sport to enter the aviation service, and he has just added to his laurels a victory in the long distance classic of the district.

The event was decided over a two-mile open water course at Neptune Beach, Schroth completing the trip through heavy seas in 1 hour 32 minutes 42 seconds and defeating by nearly six minutes his closest opponent, Jack Wolynick, of the Coast Guard service.

BOXING BOUTS IN AUSTRALIA

Hippodrome, Accommodating 3,000 Persons, Is Used Twice Weekly—Interest Prevails.

Discussing boxing in Australia,
"Snoopy" Baker says: "For reasons that must be known to Americans there have been important modifications of professional contests. The huge Sydney Stadium, which has a seating capacity of 17,000, is closed during the war, so now local military must trek to the Hippodrome, a fine building, which can accommodate 3,000. The structure is used twice weekly for mixed boxing and vande-ville, but as the boxing contests are limited to ten rounds and the price of admission must not exceed 50 cents, it will be seen that no very big purses can be hung up for the lads. However, interest in the sport prevails, and big crowds attend the bouts.

title to William T. Tilden II, in the tournament held at the P. A. A. courts

INFLUENZA, SORE THROAT, COLDS, PNEUMONIA

Yield Quickly to Antiseptic Oil Treatment.

Many are finding relief from Influenza, Colds, Sore Throat, and perhaps preventing pneumonia, it is said, by the use of Miller's Antiseptic Oil (known as Snake Oil). Its great penetrating, pain relieving qualities insure almost instant relief when applied freely on the chest or throat, well rubbed, when first symptoms arise. The oil penetrates through to the affected parts and tends to open up the air passages, making breathing more easy, relieving the pain. And for the cough a few drops on a little sugar usually brings prompt relief. Don't fail to have a bottle on hand when the attack comes on, and if used according to directions, results are assured or your money refunded. 30c, 60c and $1.00 at Connellsville Drug Co.—Adv.

"Lorna Doone" Not All Fanciful.
It was long contended that the story of "Lorna Doone," by Blackmore, has no foundation in fact, but now it is declared that the picturesque region of Exmoor really contained a family of Dooones, the originals in romance, if not of disgrace, of the people described in the book.
